Natasha and her family have lived in their privately rented home for 3 years. Eventually in April 2017 the land-lord tasked a workman to plaster over the endemic damp.

At least 71 of the Tory MPs who voted against an amendment to make sure all-properties are "fit for human habitation" are private land-lords themselves.

Please feel free to share:
Credit © Les Monaghan
www.relativepoverty.org

Data: International Business Times, December 2016